MR. PERKINS SENT TO JAIL

of the Court, for Refusing to Testify -This Morning's Proceedings.

The grand jury room in the federal court building was packed by a curious crowd this morning when Commissioner VanBuren took his seat to resume the investigation of the local election frauds, the particular matter of Samuel E. Perkins, who had refused to estify. When order had been obtained, the district attorney said:
"Call Mr. Samuel E. Perkins."

Mr. Perkins did not need to be called, for he already occupied the witness chair. He arose and read from a paper he held: "I respectfully decline to be sworn, or to testify in this proceeding, on the ground that the examining officer of this court has no jurisdic-tion of the subject matter now being inquired

Captain Ritter—Your honor, we ask that the witness be dealt with for contempt of court.

Commissioner Van Buren—This matter was passed on yesterday, and, acting upon the advice given me by Judge Woods, Mr. Perkins, I shall have to commit you for contempt of this court. You will therefore stand committed to the county jail for a period of three months, or until the further order of the court.

Mr. Duncan—I suppose you have the

Mr. Duncan—I suppose you have the commitment formally prepared?

Mr. Van Buren—It is ready, in anticipation of Mr. Perkins's refusal to testify. The commissioner thereupon proceeded to read the commitment, which was in the usual form; reciting the facts in the case and directing the marghal to "tate and convay". recting the marshal to "take and convey"
Mr. Perkins to jail, and instructing the jailer, to "safely and securely keep him there for a period of three months or until the urther order of the court."

Marshal Hawkins was summoned and the commitment delivered to him. Mr. Perkins arose and followed that official out, accompanied by his attorneys. He looked pale and weary, and was evidently laboring un-der suppressed excitement. It was just 9 o'clock and thirty-nine minutes when the procession marched out of the court room, and some irreverent young man in the crowd gently murmured, "Taken to a county jail." The examination of witnesses was then resumed, the first who was called being San-ford W. Hornaday, No. 88 Plum street. He testified that he held no official position in connection with the late election, but was present at the canvassing board, for some time. He remembered that there was some question raised about the returns from the seventeenth ward, and afterward about the fourth ward—Inspector Counselman's precinct—where there was dispute about the vote for criminal judge. It was about noon, he thought, when these returns were first passed by the chairman of the canvassing board, on account of some informality in the certifias stated by Mr. Bernhamer. ing morning this precinct was again called, the next to the last, and when the papers were then passed in, there was a con-troversy over the vote for criminal judge, it being claimed that changes had been made. The witness said he was "checking" the vote as it was read by a copy of the tally-sheet, which he had made the day after the election. Since he made that copy the tally-sheet had been changed. When he copied it the vote of Irvin for oriminal judge was 231 and for Ayres 161. When he examined it, as the returns were being read before the board, 21 votes were being read before the board, 21 votes had been taken from Mr. Irvin's vote and as many added to Ayres. The changes appeared to have been just madefor the ink was apparently fresh, not yet dry, and different in color from that originally used. He had not heard Mr. Conselment are anything about the from that originally used. He had not heard Mr. Counselman say anything about the changes that had been made, nor had he fendants. He had overheard Mr. Coy say that "The republicans needn't squeal; they That remark was made to Mr. Albert Sahin when the witness was talking to him, and Coy came up. Afterward he saw Mr. Coy examination, the witness said he

The next witness was Stephen Mattler, proprietor of the Occidental hotel saloon. He estified that he was present at the canvassing board, as an inspector of the third pre-cinct, thirteenth ward, and that while there, cinct, thirteenth ward, and that while there, he was introduced to Mr. Allen Hisey, the inspector of the second precinct of that ward, by Mr. Perkins. Continuing, he said: "We didn't have much conversation then, and didn't see Mr. Hisey or Mr. Perkins again until late in the afternoon. Then I met Mr. Perkins in the hall; and be harded was relief record. the hall, and he handed me a roll of papers, saying: 'Give these to Hisey; I have to go away.' I took them and hunted Hisey up and gave them to him. The bundle look like it might be election papers, but I did not open nor inspect them. It was fifteen or twenty minutes after I got the papers before I gave them to Hisey."

Arthur Jordan was next called. He testiied that he was present at the canvassing board when the controversies arose over the

the returns from the fourth and twenty-third wards. Mr. Schmidt, the inspector of the latter ward, raised the question himself, and asked that the other set of returns might be brought in and Mr. Bernhamer explained that this could not be done. Schmidt said he would not sign the returns unless they were recorded correctly. The witness said that he had seen the defendants, ex-Berhamer, going and turning from another room in the eastern part of the court house. They seemed to have a private room there. He referred to Mr. Sahm, Mr. Coy, Mr. Spaan and Mr. Sullivan going to and fro in the hall, ostensibly from this room. They ap-peared to be holding confidential conversa-tion. After Mr. Counselman's returns had been canvassed these gentlemen didn't seem to have anything to do, but loated around in a complacent and self-satisfied manner. These conferences continued a greater part of Thursday night. When Mr. Counselman was giving in his returns, Mr. John B. Elam began asking him some questions about names, when Mr. Spaan came up on the other side and told Mr. Coun-selman not to answer any questions, and after that he did not answer any questions. What Mr. Elam wanted to know was whether the returns had been out of his (Couselman's) hamer about the matter and he said that there was no proot of any changes in the tally sheets, and that the republicans had been guilty of the same thing. cross-examination of Mr. Jordan, he said that he had overheard Mr. Spaan say to Mr. Coy, "Well, Sim, I see your stock is advancing," and Coy replied, "Yes, we'll get there just the same." The next witness was James A. McKenzie "I had a conversation with Henry N. Spaan since the canvassing board. He is my attorney. I went to his office, and said saw his name was mixed up with the fraud. He said he never touched a tally-sheet in He said he never touched a tally-sheet in any shape or manner, only at the clerk's office with the returning board. He was satisfied there had been skullduggery with the tally-sheets. He asked me if I knew Wagner or Irvin. I said I was a neighbor of the doctor's. He said I might say to the doctor that he (Spaan) would prosecute the parties—free of charge—who had been guilty of the skullduggery. I went to the doctor's office and told him what Spaan had said and his offer of services free gratis. Wagner said he was much obliged. He had the offer of fifteen attorneys already, and he (Spaan) was one of the very men he was after. I teld Spam this and he said he was glad of it, as he had been employed on the other side where he would get a see."

An attachment was asked for Patrick Kelly, who had been repeatedly summoned, but had failed to appear and the court took a recess.

After the order of commitment was read, Mr. Perkins went over to the jail with Marshal Hawkins, and was apparently not greatly concerned about the matter. He laughingly said that he didn't care much about going to jail, but he did hate to be sent there by such "timber" as VanBuren. He went behind the bars with the other prisoners, coming out in the office several times to talk to callers. At noon he said to a News proposer and representatives. several times to talk to callers. At noon he said to a News reporter and representatives of other papers, "that he was not prepared to say what his attorneys would do; whether or not they would bring habeas corpus proceedings, or to what methods they would resort. It was evident that he had been instructed to keep a discreet silence in the matter. He was altogether cheerful and joked and laughed just as though nothing had happened. As the callers left he went back into the cell room saying: "Good-bye, boys, come around and see me." Neither Mr. Calkins nor Mr. Hord could be found at their offices when the reporter found at their offices when the reporter be found at their offices when the reporter asked for them, but it was intimated that they were in consultation. Major Hendricks, while admitting that, in a general way, a course of action had been decided upon, declined to say what it was, and whether or not habeas corpus proceedings would be instituted, and, if so, in what form. He said all these things would be developed in time, but for the present he preferred to make no statement as to the intentions of Mr. Perkins's counsel. It was found he already had a visitor, Johnny Bowlus, who had brought him a big, round, red apple, which Perkins was eating with every m of keen enjoyment, as if he had already had a taste of prison fare. He was sitting in the office of the jail at the time, with the vigilant Clark close at hand, and Sammy and Johnny were chatting as if neither had a care, and as if the latter really enjoyed paying his respects under the circumstances in which the

"Whatdo you propose to do?" inquired The News reporter of Perkins.
"I do not know," was the response.
"And what have your attorneys agreed upon?"

"That I do not know."
"And are you blindly obeying orders, without knowing what step will be taken to relieve you from your present predicament?" "I know nothing," was the persistent re-joinder. "The commissioner sent me here for three months, and here I am.

The reporter then suggested that Tim was a congenial companion, and that the office of the jail after all was not so bad a place, and care would be taken that he did not suffer "But I've already been behind the bars, group of reporters, who were hunting for Mr.

Perkins's attorneys, and as they turned to leave the last sight witnessed was the lay. leave, the last sight witnessed was the ke being turned on Sammy as he strode bac into the jail proper.

It is presumed the jail authorities will show him unusual attention, but still caution will be taken as to the amount of privileges accorded, for it is a ticklish thing to run counter to the government as custodian of a prisoner. Some years ago it is recalled tha when Colonel Ruckle was sheriff, and Harry McFarland jailer, Rheinhold Rein-mann, at that time running the most popular saloon resort in the city, and who imagined himself greater than the court, was committed for contempt by Judge Gresham, and was transferred to the cus-tody of McFarland, Not thinking of committing a wrong that would bring him in Reinmann some extraordinary favors, per mitting him, if remembered rightly, to go to his home or saloon, but under strong escort and in a day or two rumors of this reache Gresham. Then there was music, and it re quired the stronges: kind of persuasion from the most influential persons to in-duce the court finally to be con-tent with the imposition of a fine of $500 and costs against Harry, which the sheriff paid and was only too glad "to say no more about it." It is not likely that the jailers, however friendly they may be to the obstinate witness will care to take any bstinate witness, will care to take an chance of running counter to the government, for it is a ticklish thing to fool with Even Simeon, who is slow to grasp anything indicating that the law has rights which he nuch of that suavity and gaiety which for merly made him conspicuous. In fact, he has a tired look, as if he would be only too willing to let go and "say no more about it." bout the streets to-day the sole theme wa Has Sammy been committed, and will he really go to jail? for some reason, there being strong doubt that extremes would be reached in his case. There is already considerable criticism of the course pursued by his lega advisers, and that too in democratic circles and the opinion is freely advanced that if he had refused to answer upon the broad ground that in doing so he would criminate himself his course, and it would have been better the defendants now under examination. PERKY AT 2 P. M. At 2 o'clock this afternoon, when a News reporter called, Jailer Emmet admitted him, pulled the bolts and called: "Perkins, there's a man out here to see you." Perkins greeted the reporter pleasantly and said: "Well, you see I'm in here. That's all I can say. I'm in the hands of my attorneys and you can appreciate my situation. I have committed no crime, yet I told Tim Clark that I asked no more leniency to be Ciark that I asked no more leniency to be shown me than to others." Clark remarked that he had known Sammy and his father, and that it was his personal wish to do as well by him as possible, yet he did not want to get into trouble. Perkins said he was watching a game of cards when called to come out; that they had just taken the clinkers out of the stove and that it was good and warm in there. "But," said he, "I am of a nervous disposition and used to walking a good deal and I don't know how I'll like being shut up in so small a place and Perkins said he thought the most of them came merely to see whether or not he was really behind the bars. And that's about the

The Orange County Cases, The motion to quash the indictments in the cases of John McBosley, Joseph Moore, Eleazor Pierce, Thomas Ritter, John Stout Amos Stout and Alfred Holliday, all citizen of Orange county, accused of bribing and at-tempting to bribe voters, came up for argu-ment before Judge Woods this morning. Mr. C. L. Holstein supported it in a lengthy and C. L. A petition was yesterday filed in the circuit court by the heirs of Eleanor Plummer asking for the removal of the executor, Robert Denny. The petition alleges that Mrs. Plummer was seventy-three years old and in feeble mind at the time of her death—August 15, 1885; that in this condition she yielded to the advice of Theodore W. The Disappointment of Good Farmer Sinicebox-A Market Writer's Idyl-Prices of Good Things This Week.

There was a little boom in the gold fever in Brown county yesterday, but it didn't last till sundown. For years small particles of the precious metal have been found in the creek bottoms of that county, and industri-ous searchers are able to pick up several dollars' worth in a week. Farmers who own land adjacent to the "gold fields" have fond-ly anticipated a time when their ground would be in demand at balloou prices, Farmer would be in demand at balloou prices, and solucebox thought yesterday that the time had come. "Send me three wild turkeys or seven tame ones." This was an order by telephone to a game dealer from a restaurant. The intimation that wild turkey will "go further" than tame was inquired into. A hotel steward confirmed it. He said that the bones of wild turkeys are smaller and the meat firmer than in tame turkeys. Perhaps the flavor is not so universally acceptable and this might contribute to the economy in the use of the wild fowl. At any rate there is a marked difference in favor of the wild bird and this partially accounts for the difference in value. TUESDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1886, THE legislature can stop these election frauds by passing a more stringent law.

THE purity of the ballot-box can b ed if the legislature chooses to do it. THE Colin-Campbell divorce suit has ended, the jury finding that neither party was guilty of the abominations charged by the other, and refusing to grant an absolute divorce. This closes another chapter of toeratte nastiness but no one can tel how soon another will be opened. THOSE politicians who have been hoping that the probibition vote would not be a factor in 1888, are not likely to be reassured by the showing of this year. St. John received in 1884 150,369 votes, and returns compiled by the Voice show that nearly double the mber was cast this year. In this state the percentage of gain was 203, and the lowest percentage reported, that of Michigan, was 38. Even if there should be no further increase the total is an item that can not be left out in political figuring.

Labon suffers more from competition with lazimess and drunkenness than from the assaults of capital. Capital wants good labor and will bay for it, but if it must take labor in the lump with all its drawbacks, the energetic and the sober must suffer for their association with the lazy and the drunken. This is a rough truth, but truth nevertheles.—(Springheld Union.)

It's "bosh" nevertheless. There never was a time when sobriety was such a sine que non for all employment as it is to-day. The talk that drunkenness is crippling the laboring people is, we believe, insulting and The same sort of talk is indulged in by English landlordism, as an exion of the failure of Ireland to tand up and be rack-rented. There e drunkenness among the working people; we doubt if there is more of it than ng those better off, who are not called working people. There is too much of it on all hands. It is a curse of Anglo-Saxon inheritance; but that it is a habit depleting the ring people, as is indicated by the quotaabove, can not be sustained. The de posits in savings banks of our contemporary's n state and all over New England are proof to the contrary.

We give no sort of faith to this or in any kind of cheap barrels that are The only fact that touches it at all, is the omission of the Mormon question from the message, and that can hardly be considered significant of Mormon symhy, when it is remembered that congress as for a year had in preparation all the remedial legislation required. There was no need, hardly even a suggestion of propriety, a presidential reference to the matter n the situation it is. The trouble is not the president. It is with congress, in "powerful lobby" we have heard re than once since the amend ands law was proposed, an in that large sum of that the Mormon agents are known ld for congressional service. ne sin. Just as it stands it may be able to go well on toward its end of clearing the untry of its nastiest disgrace, but with the nts pending it is sure to go further and faster. Whether it will get the help of these amendments does not depend on the dation in the president's message, any more than it does on an allusion in a miesong. It depends whotly on congress. If the wise ones, who are making political captal in the silence on the message on the matter will seek a little judicious direction in the inaction of the lower house of congress, they may find something that will help the country and won't hurt them. There is infinitely nore to fear from "the large sum of money" held by the "Mormon lobby" than from all that the president doesn't say, or all that he can say between this and the 4th of March if he sends messages about it every day. It is all very well to talk of the American congress being above the "petty meanness of pecuniary corruption," but congress, or a deciding faction between opposing divisions, has been bought over and over, and may be till the last trump blows in the norning. We can tell better how much in-whether the Edmunds amendments are taken up and passed or not. The Philadelphia Press says: Is the administration temporizing or bargaining with the Mormons? There are three facts which give basis and warrant for this inquiry, namely: The complete silence of the president's message on the Mormon question; the presence of a powerful Mormon lobby in Washington, and the sudden appearance of the governor of Utah in that city. What does it all mean?

fluence Mormon money has when we see

We have answered these questions in advance, and we quote them merely to show how foolishly sensible men, and papers may too, for party purposes, shift blame to the wrong shoulders. The "lobby" is the trouble, and that concerns nobody but congress.

The Secrecy of Journalism.

Naturally the journalists of Baltimore are somewhat excited over the attempt of the grand jury and judge of one of the courts of grand jury and judge of one of the courts of that city to make a reporter of the Sun dis-close the sources of his information touching certain proceedings of the grand jury, in re-gard to which he had made publication. He has been summoned before that body and questioned in regard to the matter, but he properly refused to give the information de-sired, wherenoon he was taken before the sired, whereupon he was taken before the court. Here he again declined to give the authority for the statements he had pub-lished, although he admitted having written them, with the purpose only of giving the truth concerning a matter in which the pub-lic was interested. The judge has taken the natter under advisement, and will in a few days render his decision. It is to be hoped the reporter will maintain to the end the stand he has taken. The court may punish him, but public opinion will sustain him. Journalism is as honorable and responsible a profession as law of medicine, and there is no more reason for com pelling one of its members to disclose the urces of information than there is in making alawyer reveal the secrets confided to him by a client, or requiring a doctor to betray the confidence reposed in him by a patient. If a mistake has been made by him or those in his employ no person is quicker to correct it than the conductor of a reputable journal, and if damage has been done by any publication it has made he is amenable to the law for the consequences, as other people are for narm resulting from their acts; but to undertake to compel a revelation as to the sources of his information through the agency of a court is a tyrannical assumption of authority unworthy the present enlightened age.

Celery Raising Overdone.
It is reported that the celery-raising business, for which Kalamazoo has become famous, is being largely overdone there. Evry inch of available marsh-land has been converted into celery beds, and the search for more land continues. It is not alone the quantity raised that burts the business, but the quality, which is deteriorating on account the metaphysical tantrums of Concord to the "thrasonical brags" of Ingersoll over Moses, stalks on the market as possible. There is talk of organizing an association of growers to limit the quantity and keep up the quality.

CATHOLIC PRIESTHOOD AND AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP.

The Orator or the Archbishop-Henry George a Yankee Disciple of European Socialism—The Question of Individual Liberty-Go to Rome.

ondence of The Indianapolis News.] BROOKLYN, December 15 .- Archbishop Corrigan has suspended Rev. Dr. Mc-Glynn from ministerial functions and given him compulsory leave to visit Rome and to enlighten the pope touching some details of his relations to American affairs.

If the question had concerned dogma com-paratively little interest would have been excited outside of the Roman Catholic church. But it is not a dispute concerning the faith. It is a question of politics. It amounts to about this: Is a Catholic priest a citizen, clothed with the rights and duties of an American citizen? It is even narrower than that. May a priest discuss political principles, theories of government and eco-nomical questions which may constantly arise in a free community of intelligent cit izens? Or are his sacred functions inconsistent with the formation and enunciation of his convictions upon such themes? Dr. Mcwith the full liberty of an American citizen. Archbishop Corrigan would greatly limit the bounds of his liberty and sends him to Rome to commune with the pope touching such

A winter voyage is not specially agreeable. but, for the sake of seeing Rome, one might cheerfully submit to a tempestuous voyage. There are many charming things in Rome. If one has enough imagination, Rome will speak to him with the voices of the past. History will unroll before him wonderful things. The very stones will cry out. For the study of antiquity, for art and archeol-ogy, Rome, dim and dusky, with the veil of thousands of years, will uncover her features to the devotee.

But that the Imperial City is a school in which to reveal to the American citizen his rights and duties is indeed a revelation.
What would not an American reporter give if he could "interview" the pope or listen to Glynn refulgent in orthodoxy to his pastor-ate, and purged of his heresy of Henry George to sit at the feet of authority and in his right mind,"

Now, we fear thar our Protestant watch men will not sympathize with our jaunty way of dealing with this great event. Every way of dealing with this great event. Every hair of the true Protestant head will stand up like a scepter, ready to de battle! We, too, should get a little roused if it was our own case. But long experience has taught us how to bear other folks' troubles with equanimity. To speak plainly, we do not lose sleep because Archbishop Corrigan has said to Barr Dr. McCliven of the troubles. said to Rev. Dr. McGlynn-after the manner of the rude distich:

Go to Rome and shake yourself, And when you come back behave yourself, Well, what is the matter?

What has Dr. McGlynn done that he should intermit his eloquent discourses and be sent to Rome? Has he misled his flock and fed them on the unwholesome grass of eresy? Has he set aside venerable nances, reviled the vestments, decried bap-tism? No, he has been left to the buffetings of Henry George's philosophy. And what is that? And who is Henry George? A Yankee disciple of European socialism! He has published a book. He teaches that all land belongs to the state and not to indi-viduals, and that the state should let it out to individuals and raise all its revenue by taxing the land, and taxing nothing else. is not new or original. It is but a single thread drawn from the robe of European socialism and has been discussed for years before Henry George, as it were, adapted it for the English and American market. Its importance just now arises from the fact that the whole land is aroused to the great conflict between organized labor and organized capi between organized moor and organized capi-tal. Henry George having been nominated by the labor party for mayor of New York, Dr. McGlynn expressed himself with en-thusiasm in favor of Henry George and his views. But Archbishop Corrigan does not believe in Henry George's theories as fer-vently as Dr. McGlynn does. The collision struck out the spark which has set the archbishop's robes on fire, and he sends his sub-ordinate to cool off in Rome. On that some-body would send us to Rome! If we knew the precise heresy that would effect this we would endeavor to fall into it!

citizen, has a right to form and express his convictions on all questions pertaining to the public welfare. Archbishop Corrigan has a right to require of an inferior absolute submission to his authority. The right is inherent in the very organization of the church. Dr. McGlynn can honorably leave the church, but if he stays in he must obey his superior.

And here vehement Protestants will be expected to paint in lurid colors the evils and changes of the Roman church, just as if the principle involved did not belong to all organized bodies—just as much to Protestant churches as to the Roman hierarchy. Just now we are edified with the spectacle of three Presbyterian synods in the south ejecting Professor Woodrow from his professorship in South Carolina for holding to the doctrine of evolution. No matter whether this scientific evolution. No matter whether this scientific doctrine be true or false, it seems well-nigh certain that evolution can not be reconciled with Chapter VI of the "Westminster Confession of Faith," and that whoever holds and teaches the doctrines of evolution must come under discipline and leave the church or renounce his belief. Of course all rigor ous Presbyterians must take sides with Arch bishop Corrigan!

Just now all New England is aroused because certain teachers of theology suspect that there is a chance for repentance in the A workman in the Meriden Britannia company's works, while scouring the inside of a silver teapot the other day, slipped his hand through the small neck of the pot and then couldn't withdraw it. The harder he tried the more he didn't succeed, and the hand began to swell. Then the company's chemist poured a strong solution of alum chemist poured a strong solution of alum and the workman soaked his dogma of eternal suffering declare that the professors shall resign their professorships or renounce the heresy of believing in any form of future probation with Archbishop Corrigan. They stand on the same ground.

Of course all these, too, will sympathize with Archbishop Corrigan. They stand on the same ground.

As things stand, all Protestant denominations of christians demand that one must conform to the laws and beliefs of their churches. In the Roman church the power of discipline is organic and inherent. In Protestant churches the offender is driven out by bringing to bear upon him moral influences. The instruments differ; the operation is the same. Rome has this advantage. She has but one pope. Among Protestants there are almost as many popes as parishes. The spirit of organization is opposed to the spirit of individual liberty. This conflict is not confined to religious organizations. It exists in political parties. It is held and taught that men must go with their party or go out of it.

What shall we do?

Individual liberty is indispensable to intelligence and growth. Organization is in

THE COUNCIL MEETING.

e Proceedings-A Thirty-Thousan

At the regular meeting of the council last night it was decided to appoint a joint com-mittee to attend to all matters of legislation in which the city may be interested at the coming general assembly. The city attorney was made chairman, and the council end of the committee was made to consist of Messrs. Haugh, Newland, Rooker and Thalman. The city attorney reported that no action could now be taken to compel the street-railway company to extend their North Mississippi street line, as the ground was frozen and the work could not be done.

and the work could apt be done.

Gottlieb Muhlman, being unable to give the required bond for executing his contract in supplying the new market house with stalls and fixtures, the work was awarded to C. & L. C. Eden for $3,400, George W. Moon and Josiah B. Dill being sureties.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the cil committee to borrow $30,000 on the ist of January, to meet outstanding obliga-tions and defray current expenses until the city is in receipt of the first installment of taxes, the rate of interest to be not more than taxes, the rate of interest to be not more than 6 per cent. Action on the water works company's non-concurrence in the ordinance passed was deferred for the present. The committee on fees and salaries, who had under consideration the salaries of certain city officials, made a report, the details of which have already been printed. Mr. Smith mand to increase the salary of Joseph Smith moved to increase the salary of Joseph Gasper, chief of the chemical, and book-Gasper, chief of the chemical, and book keeper at headquarters as well, from $750 to $1,000, and this was carried by a vote of 9 to 8. There was considerable discussion over the proposed $1,200 for the east market master, but the ordinance was finally passed with only two votes against it.

An ordinance authorizing S. W. Howells to erect and maintain towers masts and posts, for the purpose of furnishing Indianapolis with electric light and power, providing that he may be compelled to pay the city a part of the gross earnings of his plant, was introduced and referred to the committee. The building inspector ordinance was postponed until next April, as there would be cessity for such an officer until then The ordinance reducing the licease of peddlers and hucksters who use a wagon to $10 a year was passed by a vote of 11 to 6, and the Brush electric light franchise was extended five years.

Among the number were one or two specialists. The medicine they applied was like fire to the sore, causing intense pain. I saw a statement in the papers teiling what the second bottle the neighbors could notice that my cancer was healing up. My general health had been bad for two or three years—I had a hacking cough and spit blood contin-ually. I had a severe pain in my breast. After taking six bottles of S. S. DEMURRER TO EVIDENCE—FIRE INSURANCE.

12.321. North British Mercantile insurance company vs. Albert J. Crutchfield et al. Posey C. C. Affirmed. Howk, J.

In passing upon and deciding the questions presented by a demurrer to the evidence, the court must consider not only all the facts which the evidence tends to establish, but, also, all such reasonable inferences of fact, as the jury, if trying the cause, night have lawfully shown from such evidence. (77 Ind., 576; Sl Ind., 200; 100 Ind., 127; 104 Ind., 233.) This was an action on a policy of fire insurance, and there was a demurrer to the evidence, and appellants claimed that the evidence falled to show that the appellee him to recover. It was shown by the policy which was in evidence, that one Rosencrans was the duly authorized agent of the company. The evidence tended to show that the appellee roungily notified the agent of the loss. The appellee testified that he tendered plans and specifications and proof of loss after the adjuster had been to see the property, but the agent refused to take them. It was insisted that the appellee should send the proof of his loss to Chicago, but this was not required by the policy. The giving of notice to the agent was notice to the company. (25 Ind., 294) The rendering of an acount of loss to the agent was a sufficient compliance with the policy. Under these facts there was no error in overruling the appellant's demurrer.

255.474—WILLE—CONSTRUCTION OF.

12.509. Gabriel G. Hockstedier vs. David Hockstedier. Howard C. C. Affirmed. Elliott, J. Where an exhibit is properly designated in one paragraph of a pleading, it may be referred to different puragraphs by a reference to it, without specifically making it a part of each of them. It is not proper to incumber the record with uscless repetitions of an exhibit which has once been properly brought into it.

Where alife estate is created in a devisee named, and the same will devises the remainder to devisees, who are named, and their iswful heirs, they (the devisees) take an e away or cut down by raising a doubt on an extent, meaning an application of a subject clause of the will, nor by inference thereiron, nor by any subsequent words of the clause giving the interest or estate. Where an estate in iee was clearly devised to the sister and brothers of one and he is classed with them and precisely the same words applied to him as to them, his estate is the same as theirs. is the same as theirs. Insanity—Guardianship of—Insane Evidence-

PRACTICE.

12,894. Matilda J. McCammon vs. James Cun-ningham. Montgomery C. C. Affirmed. Mitchningham. Montgomery C. C. Affirmed. Mitchell, J.

In—a proceeding to declare the defendant of unsound mind it was not error for the court to refuse to instruct the jury that "insanity is a stronger term" than the phrase of "unsound mind." The jurisdiction of the court to appoint a guardian is not confined to cases of insanity, idiocy or lunacy, strictly so called, but extends to every case of mental unsoundness or imbecility, which has reached such a degree, from whatever cause, as renders its subject incapable of conducting the renders its subject incapable of conducting the ordinary affairs of life and leaves him in a condition to become the victim of his own folly or the fraud of others. But in no case should the statute be abused by the assumption of jurisdiction over the person or property of another until such a degree of mental unsoundness is clearly made to appear. (8 B. Mon., 107; Bus. on Insanity, 4.) Abstract of opinions rendered Saturday,

December 18: NEW TRIAL IN ACTIONS FOR TORTS-EXCESSIVE NEW TRIAL IN ACTIONS FOR TORTS—EXCESSIVE DAMAGES.

12,372. Lake Erie company vs. James Acres, Tippecanoe C. C. Affirmed. Elliott, J.

It is only in cases of tort that excessive damages are cause for a new trial. In such actions the amount of damages assessed will not be a cause for disturbing the verdict unless it is sooutrageous as to strike every one with their enormity and inas to strike every one with their enormity and injustice, and so as to induce the belief that the jury were prejudiced or corrupted. WILLS-TESTATORS' REAL ESTATE.

WILLS—TESTATORS' REAL ESTATE.

12,743. A. R. Thomas vs. S. E. Thomas et al. Washington C. C. Reversed. Mitchell, J. Where a will devised the real estate to the widow for life, and in a second clause provided that the testator's personalty be sold and divided between his heirs equally, except to one son; and to him was given $25 in addition to what had been advanced to him. In respect to the remainder of the testator's real estate he died intestate, and the statute of descents was not interrupted, and the law gave such real estate to the heirs. The taking of the legacy by the son did not estop him to assert his rights as heir and that right was not affected by the will.

To the Editor of the Indianapolis News. To the Editor of the Indianapolis News,

The item in your paper of the 20th inst. does me and my family great injustice, as it gives out the impression that the divers cases of diphtheria now prevalent in the northeastern part of the city have their origin in my family. That can not possibly be true. I would say that the several cases of diphtheria in my family were of a very mild form, and at all times entirely under control of the attending physician, and during the period of such sickness at no time were any of my children allowed to attend school or expose themselves to other children in public. Diphtheria allone was not the direct cause of my little boy's death, but the result of poisoning of the stomach while recovering from the diphtheria. boy's death, but the result of poisoning of the stomach while recovering from the diphtheria. Prior to and at the time of the sickness in my samily there were many other cases of diphtheria existing through the neighborhood and vicinity, therefore that all these cases of diphtheria now prevalent should have their origin in my family is not well founded.

THE WOODWORTH SERVICES.

A Drunken Medical Student Makes a Disgraceful Exhibition of Himself.

At the Woodworth meeting last evening the revivalist gave particular attention to the cold comfort which she had received from the christian people of the city, more par-ticularly the Methodist ministers, and her manuer indicated that she had been stung by the action of the Ministerial association yesthe action of the Ministerial association yes-terday in denouncing as unworthy of credence her alleged trances and exhibitions of "power." Several hundred people were in attendance, and the receipts at the door con-stituted the "biggest house," in a financial sense, which she has had since the season opened. At the afternoon meeting Mrs. Mary Fake, 276 North Noble street, who claimed Fake, 276 North Noble street, who claimed to have been deaf for many years, so that she could only hear the loudest sounds, recovered her hearing, so that she could understand a whisper, and could hear the services, and the girl of whom it was alleged that she had received power to walk after being crippled for a long time was also present, and with very little assistance was able to move about quite freely. Mrs. Woodworth was hoarse last night, and whatever supernatural power she may claim whatever supernatural power she may claim comes to her at stated periods, none to re-lieve her of the cold which has clung to her for several nights has yet reported. Last night she claimed to have had another vis-ion of a valley of dry bones, this time located right here in this city, and the dry bones represented the sinners, many of whom were in the churches. She said "there had been a great rattling of dry bones since the advent into the city, many of the bones in high places, which have never rattled before. There were tens of thousands of persons in the church who are dead," and she said that she "would rather wage battle with a regiment of infidels any day than with a regiment of church members. The Lord has to knock a church members. The Lord has to knock a great many sinners down or they will not come down, and that is the reason we pray for the knock-down power." Continuing, she said, "since I began the work of saving souls I have not found ten in one hundred church members who were christians. * Some of the churches take you on probation, and if you do pretty well for nine months, they then take you clear in and never ask you whether you have been converted or not. Thousands of people have gone into the church and come out infidels, and there are hundreds of infidels in the church. The ministers of Indianapolis are gathering there are hundreds of infidels in the church. The ministers of Indianapolis are gathering and condemning me. Let them come here, and I will convert them. That is the trouble with them; they have not been here. They say I will break up the churches. Great God! if the churches are that weak, they ought to have the bottom knocked out of them. These old dry bones of the churches are doing what they can for God, because they are afraid of him. Let us not worship God by machinery, but by our souls."

After Mrs. Woodworth had talked in this style until the audience began to show signs of weariness, the husband took up the theme and exhorted sinners to present themselves, and he took oceasion to say "that there is not much style about our preachin', but style is and he took occasion to say "that there is not much style about our preachin", but style is bought of the devil and it only goes to the grave." Then there was a talk from John King, the "reformed drunkard," whom Mrs. Woodworth, by reason of his last conversion, styled "an infant in the cause," after which the revivalist cleared the after and called for penitents to present themselves, and some twenty or thirty came forward. Among them was a well-dressed young man, who said that "he wanted some of that power," and he was soon identified as a medical student named Sykes. Mrs. Woodworth discovered his intoxicated condition, and as she kneeled beside him at the altar, he seemed to have no other hyperses was to get his arreto have no other purpose save to get his arms about her. She then took occasion to speak of him. She had no doubt that his mother at home was praying for him, and his behalf; and this program was carried out for some time, and apparently greatly to the satisfaction of the scamp, for he acted as if delighted with the situation. It was told afterward that his conduct was due to a wager which he had made with some of his associates, and the disgraceful action was continued until one of his friends realized the shamefulness of the situation, and pushing through the one of his friends realized the shamefulness of the situation, and pushing through the crowd, led him away. During this scene the crowd pushed and elbowed so closely around the altar, and with so little regard for the proprieties of the occasion, that Mr. Woodworth threatened to call the police. The drunken scene practically broke up the meeting, for soon after the medical student was led away, the crowd was dismissed. As a rule, the medical faculties of this city look after the more standing of their students. after the moral standing of their students pretty closely, that they at least in public do not make beasts of themselves, and there is a probability that this young man will be given an opportunity to explain his dis-graceful conduct as best he can. Thomas Spicer, of Irvington, purchased a roll of leather yesterday and put it on the sidewalk near the Vance block, while he visited the opposite side of the street. When he came back a man claimed the roll as his and sent Spicer to Sharpe to prove his claims. While Spicer was interviewing Sharpe the leather and stranger disappeared.

Spiegel & Thom.

The holiday traffic has, in some directions at least, gone far beyond expectations. At Spiegel & Thom's furniture warerooms the activity has at times verged upon a panic, and it is the work of a night almost to rearrance and spilenish the stock after the work and it is the work of a night almost to rearrange and replenish the stock after the work of the previous day. The choice of buyers has a wide range in so large a house. In ladies' desks the preference has run almost equally between walnut, cherry and natique oak. In easels it has differed on different days, but the several styles of brass, bamboo, cherry and mahogany have each in turn been liberally drawn upon. In fancy tables the same noce has been run with the same colors in ods, though for higher-priced goods the logany with onyx top has rather led. It is chairs have been in great demand an are likely to so continue.

PRINCETON, N. J., January 21, 1886.

I have found it imperative to have sure and simple remedies on hand in case of cuta, bruises, strains, sprains, colds, rheumatism, etc. Shortly after entering upon my profession, I discovered the remedy in Allocck's Porus Plasters, I tried Benson's Capcine and other plasters, but found them too harsh and irritating. Allocck's Porous Plasters give almost instantaneous relief, and their strengthening power is remarkable. In cases of weak back put two plasters on the small of the back, and in a short time you will be capable of quite severe exercise. In "sprint" and "distance" races and jumping, the muscles or tendons in the legs and feet sometimes weaken.
This can invariably be relieved by cutting the SPECAL SALE

HANDKERCHIEF SALE

She: "Well, my dear, we ought to get the children something nice for Christmas this year." He: "Yes, I suppose that is so, and yet money isn't very plentiful." She: "Well, I must know how much I am to have for this purpose. What is the limit?" He (absently): "Four dollars is as high as I generally play."

Tough to put the Christmas limit at that of a game played all the year round.

And yet if you place it in a store like THE WHEN four dollars will go a great ways.

We invite you to a Christmas display overflowing in fullness, bewildering in variety, rich in profusion.

ing in famous, bewindering in veriety, from in profusion. A collection of Neckwear so brilliant that the show cases look like great boxes of mixed paints. We have, too, Handkerchiefs of every variety, Suspenders embroidered and to embroider, and the thousand and one small things of dress.

Then there are vast stacks and heaps of Clothing for everybody, from the "toddler" to the "totterer."

HEN YOU WANT FIRST-CLASS RUBBERS ask for the GOODYEAR INDIA RUBBER GLOVE CO.'S GOODS," was the advice given to the public by a local shoe dealer a few days since. THAT'S RIGHT. They are good goods, but usually cost too much. But our GREAT SLAUGHTER SHOE AND RUBBER SALE INCLUDES EVERYTHING!

So the "Goodyear India Rubber Glove Co.'s Rubbers" are sold at the following prices: LADIES', 35c. MEN'S, 60c. The Chicago Shoe House don't "craw" on any particular make—they all "go."

WORKED TILL MIDNIGHT LAST NIGHT ARRANGING GENTS' SLIPPERS FOR A GRAND SALE TO CLEAN OUT EVERY PAIR ON BAND. Gents' Slippers are sold but once a year to any great extent, and we intend selling all odd kinds on hand at prices that will save you 50c to $1 on a pair. We have to start with not over 400 pairs Fancy Embroidered Velvet Slippers at 95c. This Slipper sells regularly at $1.25, so you save 35c right here. We have a lot of fine (various colors) Plush $4 Slippers, strictly hand-made, we will sell at ONE DOLLAR OFF. You can not buy a better $3 present for "the old man." At $1.50 we have a variety of kinds and styles—reduced to that figure from $2 to $3.

THINK OF BUYING A PAIR OF STACY, ADAMS & CO.'S FINE SHOES FOR GENTLEMEN AT $3.251

When you realize you pay a profit of 75c to $1 on the average $3 shoe, you can imagine the extent of this inducement on a five dollar shoe. The Ladies' Kid flexible sole button advertised at this price, and on which we are having such an unprecedented run, are now better arranged for sale. We have not disappointed anyone, but found trouble in arranging them for convenient use. We now have them handy, and are ready to supply 1,000 persons with any size. Ladies who have not seen them should ask to be shown this shoe, the greatest bargain of the sale.
